After Arrival In Minneapolis

Nation's Chief Executive Declared At Winona That Insurgents Who Voted Against Measure Had

Taft Talks on Tariff.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 18.—President Taft arrived here at 7:55 a. m. and was escorted to the Minneapolis club for breakfast. A big crowd gave the nation's chief a noisy reception as he stepped from the car. Later, the party was driven about the city parks and boulevards to Minneapolis Falls, the state soldier's home, and Fort Snelling, crowds along the route giving them a warm welcome.

At Fort Snelling the President reviewed the troops and was tendered a reception by the officers. While a salute from the guns of the fort was being sounded at noon the presidential party boarded automobiles for a run to St. Paul, via the Mississippi river boulevard. At the St. Paul auditorium at 1:00 p. m., luncheon was served.

Returning to Minneapolis tonight the President will be tendered a big banquet and will make a speech. He will attend church tomorrow morning and will be driven out to the Lafayette club on the shore of Lake Minnetonka, Sunday afternoon. At this retreat, it is expected, he will meet the Japanese commissioners representing the board of trade of Japan.

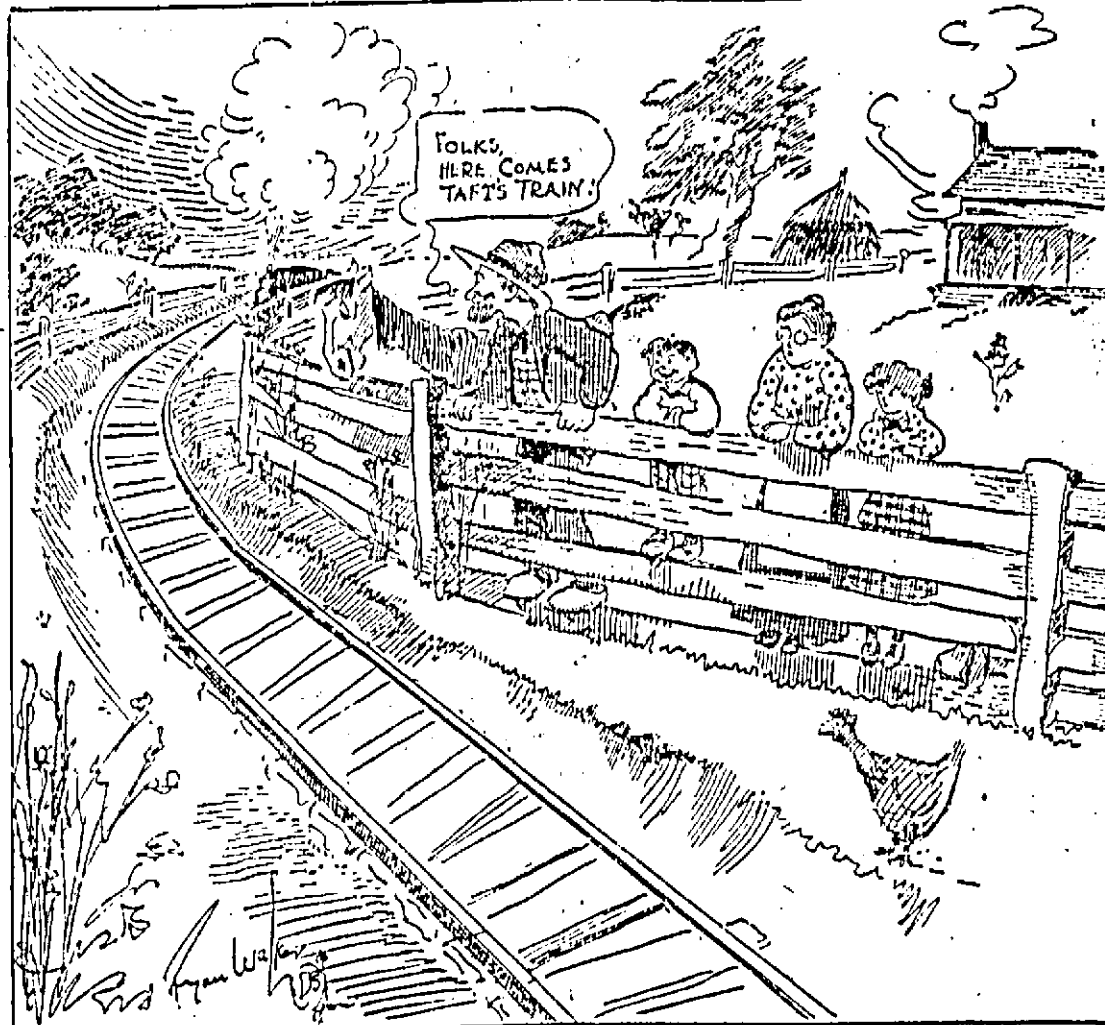

Winona, Minn., Sept. 18.—In the most important utterance he has made since his occupancy of the White House, President Taft last night, in a state which is the hot bed of the "insurgent" movement within the Republican party, defended the Payne tariff bill as the best tariff measure ever passed by a Republican congress and hence the best tariff bill the people have ever known.

The president boldly asserted that the insurgents who voted against the bill had abandoned the Republican party.

"Was it the duty of the member of congress who believed that the bill did not accomplish everything that it ought to accomplish, to vote against it?" asked the president.

"I am here to justify those who answer this question in the negative. I am not here to defend those who voted for the Payne bill, but to support them."

"To make party government effective the members of that party should surrender their personal predilections of comparative less importance. I am not here to criticize those who felt so strongly and believed so intensely that it was not their duty to vote against the tariff bill because it did not contain all they thought it should. It was a question for each man to settle for himself."

FOOTBALL SEASON WAS OPENED TODAY

First Games Of Fall, Carlisle vs Steelton East End A. C. Played At Carlisle Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Sept. 18.—At Carlisle, Pa., today, the football teams of the Carlisle Indian school and the East End A. C. of Steelton, the up to formality upon the fall season of sport at the American colleges. From this date on until November 27, when the Army and Navy clash on Franklin Field, it will be the greatest in the history of the game.

In the East the college world is interested in the fortunes of six big universities. The elimination of Columbia and the rise of Dartmouth has made the Big Six once more intact. The other members of this sextet are still Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Cornell. There are other colleges in the East which are not of the same class as these already mentioned.

In the Middle West the old conference combination, "The Big Nine," has not been fully restored and will not be until the University of Michigan is restored to the fold. This Michigan shows no disposition to do, although the Wolverines have stolen a march on the rulers of the conference by arranging a game with the University of Minnesota. Otherwise the conference colleges still consist of Wisconsin, Chicago, Minnesota, Purdue, Indiana, Iowa and Northwestern.

On the Pacific coast American college rugby is confined almost entirely to Oregon and Washington, with a few teams in the States adjoining them on the East. The elimination of the game at Stanford and the University of California has almost killed rugby football in California. Its place has been taken by association football and English rugby.

Reports from the South indicate that the football season in that section will be a notable one. Practically all of the big colleges of Virginia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Alabama, Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas will have teams in the field.

HAMILTON TRIAL IS EAGERLY LOOKED FOR

Man Of High Position Accused Of Stealing From State To Pay For Luxuries For Mistress.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Olympia, Wash., Sept. 18.—A trial that will be watched with interest throughout this section will begin Monday in the Thurston county court. Orin Hamilton, former Adjutant General of the state of Washington, is to go on trial, charged with the embezzlement of state funds. The indictment charges the embezzlement of $1,118, but the shortage, amounts to over $20,000. Most of the shortage, it is said, came through falsification of accounts in the purchase of ammunition and quartermaster's supplies from the Government armaments for the use of the State militia.

Nothing that has occurred in this state in recent years created more of a sensation than did the disclosure that resulted in the arrest of Orin Hamilton. Young, handsome, a favorite with all Hamilton, when he received the appointment of Adjutant General under Governor Mead's administration, was regarded as one of the coming men of the state. He was a native son, coming from a well known Colfax family, and seemed marked by destiny for great honors.

In the spring of 1907, however, Janet Florence Moore, a woman well known to the underworld of Seattle, forgetting wife, children and position, the dashing young Adjutant General fell a victim to her charms. The woman was removed from her former home and installed in luxurious quarters in one of the most fashionable apartment houses in Seattle. She made frequent trips to Olympia, Portland and to her former home in Oakland, Cal. Costly carriages and automobiles were at her disposal. The expense, it is alleged, was borne by Hamilton, and the constant drain was more than his finances could stand.

He discovered that he could replenish his purse by milking the military fund by means of false vouchers. This practice he is said to have begun early in 1907, and as he fell more and more under the influence of his charmer and became spurred by the need of money, he is alleged to have discovered other ways of cheating the state and put them into execution.

Finally, in the fall of 1908, every fellow officer in the National Guard had learned of Hamilton's infatuation for Florence Moore, know that he was spending more money than his allowance warranted and strongly suspected that he was embezzling the guard's money. So great became the demands of a number of National Guard officers that he resign or his office be investigated, demands voiced in the corridors of the state capitol here last winter. That Hamilton became discredited, his resignation following shortly after the legislature adjourned. On May 5 the state came into sufficient evidence to warrant his arrest and Hamilton was taken into custody. For the past five months he has been confined in the Thurston county jail, being unable to raise the amount of bail required for his release.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rochester, Minn., Sept. 18.—The following bulletin was this morning issued by Dr. McNewlin: "Governor Johnson's pulse is 105; temperature 99.2; respiration normal. He is resting easily today and is suffering little pain. He is, however, in a badly exhausted condition but is holding his own. If the governor continues to hold his own through the rest of the day and night, until tomorrow morning, in no good condition as at present, his chances for recovery will be much better."

Later—Gov. Johnson this morning is weak and exhausted although the doctor at 9:30 issued a hopeful bulletin.

Obvious of his own condition the governor dictated a message of welcome to President Taft, and of regret that his illness prevented his presence at the reception to the president. To this, President Taft replied with a message of sympathy and expression of the most earnest hope for the governor's recovery.

WISCONSIN FOOTBALL FANS BUILDING HIGH HOPES OF HEAVIER & FASTER TEAM

Six Veterans Are To Return And New Material Gives Great Promise—Practice Begins On Monday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 18.—Head Coach Tom Barry and Athletic Director C. P. Hutchins, who will begin Monday the work of developing the 1904 University of Wisconsin football eleven, have devoted the past few days to careful discussion of various plans of training and different styles of play, trying to work out a general plan of campaign. They declare, however, that in advance of the gathering of the candidates and in the absence of dependable information regarding the other eleven that Wisconsin will have to combat this fall, little has been determined upon.

However, several exceedingly important facts about the Wisconsin team for the coming season are already determined to a certainty. The team will be largely veterans, will be heavier than that of last year and doubtless considerably faster. No revolution in style of play will be attempted, the Badger team being practically a duplicate of the methods of defense and attack used last year. The coaches hope, however, to more perfectly develop the forward pass only 130 pounds of weight, will be succeeded by a man, probably 40 pounds heavier, the most likely candidate being Archie Richards, the crack Badger sprinter, who weighs over 170 pounds and stands almost six feet in his stockings. Arpin, who will probably take the place of "Jumbo" Stielm's 191 pounds at center, weighs only 175 pounds, but Buser and Macmillan, who will doubtless be in the guard positions in place of Dauter and Mosser, will carry about ten more pounds than their predecessors. Buser weighs 185 pounds and is five feet ten inches in height, while Macmillan weighs 178 pounds and is slightly taller than Buser, being 5 feet 10 1/2 inches.

If Sidney Anderson achieves the place of ex-Captain Rogers at left end, as seems to be the best "dope" relative to that job, the Badgers will gain another ten pounds for Anderson carries 175 pounds when in training trim, and stands 5'09 high, whereas Rogers was only 165 pounds in weight. Assuming that an added year of age will give a few pounds of additional weight, the six veterans who and open field running game, in which department, Moll, Anderson, Culver, Captain Wilce and perhaps Richards will be most depended upon. It is expected that some effective line work also can be executed by the veteran tackles, Doyle and Osthoff, with the prospective assistance of Buser and Macmillan, who will probably play guards on either side of Arpin at center. While this array of line material affords opportunity for earnest attack in the scrimmage line, the present coaching program inclines to develop the line chiefly with reference to assisting the forward passes and the open field running plays.

Added weight and added speed will be the happy lot of this fall. The eleven that met Minnesota and Chicago last year, narrowly dousing the Gophers and being whipped by the Maroons, weighed a total of 1,822 pounds. Six veterans return this coming week, heavy with vacation fat, but they will carry each substantially greater weight than last year even after the perspiration of hard practice has taken off superficial adipose flesh. Then, little "Activity" Cunningham, who played right halfback with will try for the team should play at the following weights, the heights of each being the same as they measured last year, but even these will probably average a little more:

Frank Boyle, left tackle, 185 pounds, 5 feet 11 inches; Oscar Osthoff, right tackle, 182 pounds, 5'09; James Dean, right end, 161 pounds, 5'09 1/2; "Keech" Moll, quarterback, 148 pounds, 5'08; "Bud" Culver, left halfback, 170 pounds, 5'11; Captain John Wilce, fullback, 173 pounds, 5'01. The first practice, scheduled for Monday afternoon, will not amount to much, as the candidates will not all be here, and considerable time will be occupied with the procurement of gridiron togs. No heavy work will be attempted for the first week. Some definite formation work will be ministered during the second week and then scrimmages will be held in preparation for the opening game of the season with Lawrence college, October 9. Wisconsin goes to Evansville on October 20. Minnesota plays here on November 13, and the season will close with the Chicago game at Chicago on November 20.

CLOCK-DIAL COMES OFF
Very Convenient to Get at the Works From the Front.

An improvement in clock dials, which makes repairing much more convenient, has been devised by a New York man. This dial is made in two parts, which slide through grooves at the sides and meet in the middle of the face. Their action is absolutely independent of the hands and, as can be seen, the mechanism may be removed with ease without disturbing of the hands, as was necessary formerly. Such a contrivance not only makes less work for the clock maker when repairs are necessary, but because of the ease with which the face is removed and the works reached many a man will be able to make his own repairs where he would otherwise have hesitated to attempt it. Most clocks are adjusted from the back, but the difficulty often lies in a front part, which is an expert on the inside, even to a clock that opens both back and front every bit of mechanism is conveniently accessible.

DIED LAST NIGHT AT ORFORDVILLE

Mrs. Isabel Williams, a Pioneer Resident of the County, Passed Away at Age of Seventy-Seven.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Orfordville, Wis., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Isabel Williams, one of the oldest residents of Rock county, died last evening at eight o'clock at the home of her son, George Williams. Deceased was born at Coburn, Canada, in 1832, and came to Spring Valley with her parents in 1842. Her maiden name was Isabel Helmbolt. One brother, George Helmbolt, and two children, Frank and George Williams, all of whom live just west of the village, survive her. The funeral will be held from the M. E. church at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the Rev. W. E. Shafer officiating.

Mrs. Mary S. Hayner.

Mrs. Mary S. Hayner, wife of Marvin A. Hayner of the town of Rock, passed peacefully to the life beyond at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning. For months she had suffered with cancer of the stomach, and fully realizing her condition, faced the future with no feeling of uncertainty, for her hope was like an anchor to the soul, sure and steadfast.

Mrs. Hayner was born October 2, 1844, and was married June 24, 1869, to Marvin Hayner, one of the early pioneers of Rock county. The new home was established in the town of Rock and three boys came to bless the union. One of them died in infancy, one at the age of seven, and Charles survives, living on a farm near the old home.

Mrs. Hayner was a consistent member of the Methodist church, but she was more than that for she possessed in rare degree, elements of character and Christian graces which won for her the love and confidence of all who knew her.

A woman of even temperament and kindly heart, she filled her niche in life to the brim, and her place in the neighborhood where her life was spent will long be vacant. She was a womanly woman of good type and during the weary months of suffering not a murmur of complaint was heard for her solace was always for others' happiness.

A good woman has passed on and the world is better because she traveled through it. Generous sympathy will be extended to the husband, who is left to trudge along the last lap of the journey alone.

Superintendent John Reynolds will conduct funeral services at the late home at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon and the remains will rest in the cemetery at Afton.

Clocks and Watches.

There is no record showing who was the inventor of the present form of clock, which was the successor of the water clock, which was in domestic use in the east for 2,000 years and which was improved by the Greeks and Romans. The Saracens are credited with substituting a weight for water to turn the toothed wheel that recorded the time. The invention of an escapement is attributed to Gerbert about A. D. 1000. Continual improvements have been made since then. The first watches were made early in the sixteenth century by Peter Hele, a clock maker of Nuremberg.—Boston Globe.

Taft's Itinerary FOR THE NEXT WEEK

Route Laid Out For Next Seven Days Will Take Him To Great Salt Lake Of Utah.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—The President's itinerary for the week will carry him from the Mississippi valley across the Rocky Mountains to the shores of the Great Salt Lake of Utah. The itinerary, in detail, is as follows: Monday, Des Moines; Tuesday, Denver; Wednesday, Denver; Colorado Springs and Pueblo; Thursday, Glenwood Springs, Montrose and Grand Junction; Friday and Saturday, Salt Lake City.

With the arrival of Dr. Cook, who is due to reach New York Monday or Tuesday, a renewal of public interest may be expected in the great scientific controversy over the discovery of the North Pole.

The Gunnison Tunnel, the first project undertaken by the United States Government Reclamation Service, is to have its formal opening Thursday, on the occasion of President Taft's visit to the Uncompahgre valley, in Colorado. The tunnel is six miles long and will have a capacity of 1,300 cubic feet of water per second. The tunnel and its distributing canals will irrigate 150,000 acres of choice lands now semiarid.

One Way to Do It.

In northern New York is a little town classically called Naples, where, by the way, the novelist Emory Pottle was born and raised. There the folk evidently have a way of their own for doing things, for this word was recently sent to a former resident, now located in New York City:

"There will be a big change in town before you visit us again. There is some talk of moving the tall hall over by the lampost, two blocks down Main street, so as to give the front a better light."

The Tennis Champion Says

MAY SUTTON
Tells American Girls How To Be Healthy And Graceful.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

Don't drink coffee.
Don't drink tea.
Don't exercise too much.

These three don'ts constitute the advice of Miss May Sutton, champion woman tennis player of the world, to girls who would go in seriously and systematically for athletics.

Eat what you want.
Take long walks.
Get all the fresh air you can.

These are the three rules Miss Sutton lays down for girls who desire merely to be strong and healthy.

The little champion recently appeared on courts in San Francisco in a series of exhibition matches. It had been reported that she was not in the best of health, but she gave no indication of having "gone back," playing her strong game that made her world's champion, with her same old dash and accuracy.

At the close of the series Miss Sutton was asked to tell what system of training she had found most effective and what, in her opinion, is the best form of exercise and diet for the average American girl. In part she said:

"While I advocate hearty eating, I cannot say too much against the use of tea or coffee. They are nerve destroyers and no one can be healthy who persists in their use."

"Too much exercise is as bad as too little. Walking is the best exercise there is. Early each morning, after drinking a glass of hot water, dressed in loose clothing, I walk for nearly an hour."

"Athletics should receive some attention from every girl. If her time precludes the playing of tennis or golf she should take long walks in the open air, both before the morning and evening meal, throwing the head and shoulders back, and taking long, deep draughts of that which money cannot buy but is in reach of the poor as well as the rich—pure air."

"Pure air and a moderate amount of exercise I cannot too strongly impress upon girls as being the only secret of health and grace. Medicine for that out-of-sorts feeling may cause girls to imagine they feel all right, but what they really need is more fresh air and not quite so much sitting around the house in tight-fitting clothes as a great many of them do."

Miss Sutton is declared by physicians to be a perfect athlete. Tennis experts declare that every movement is "a picture."—Lexington (Ky.) Leader.

POSTUM

is, as a morning cup.
A hot, steaming cup of Postum is as invigorating and bracing as coffee. But instead of caffeine-wrecked nerves, headaches and heart troubles that overtake the coffee drinker, Postum furnishes a liquid food which strengthens head and body.

A ten days' trial of well-made Postum (boiled 15 minutes) convinces.

"There's a Reason"

WONDERED WHY
Found the Answer was "Coffee."

Many pale, sickly persons wonder for years why they have to suffer so, and eventually discover that the drug—Caffeine—in coffee is the main cause of the trouble.

"I was always very fond of coffee and drank it every day. I never had much flesh and often wondered why I was always so pale, thin and weak."

"About five years ago my health completely broke down and I was confined to my bed. My stomach was in such condition that I could hardly take sufficient nourishment to sustain life."

"During this time I was drinking coffee, didn't think I could do without it."

"After awhile I came to the conclusion that coffee was hurting me, and decided to give it up and try Postum. I didn't like the taste of it at first, but when it was made right—boiled until dark and rich—I soon became very fond of it."

"In one week I began to feel better. I could eat more and sleep better. My sick headaches were less frequent, and within five months I looked and felt like a new being, headache spells entirely gone."

"My health continued to improve, and today I am well and strong, weigh 148 lbs. I attribute my present health to the life-giving qualities of Postum."

"There's a Reason."—Read, "The Road to Wellville," in place.

Several inventions have brought honors to William, one of them being the William flashlight device, which took first prize at the Chicago World's fair, and made a song sung for the inventor, William, who for many years was a photographer, and the first man to use retouching and emulating on photographs.

Discussing his invention of the aeroplane, William said: "The Wright brothers and the rest of them are right now where years ago, I kept on working secretly until I could hope to produce a machine that would be an actual commercial craft and not merely a plaything.

The invention of a device to keep the aeroplane on an even keel at once made the machine capable of long flights, and the realization of the sort of the ship he desired came quickly after the idea was hit upon. In every way the machine has been built to eliminate air resistance, and the lines of the machine compel the atmosphere encountered to aid the craft in buoying it up.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

Did you tinkle that trouble that came your way
With a resolute heart and cheerful,
Or hide your face from the light of day
With a craven soul and fearful?
Oh, a trouble is a ton, or a trouble is an ounce,
Or a trouble is what you make it,
And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts,
But only—how did you take it?
You are beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?
Come up with a smiling face,
It's nothing against you to fall down flat,
But to lie there—that's disgrace,
The harder you're thrown, why, the higher you bounce,
Be proud of your blackened eye!
It isn't the fact that you're licked that counts,
It's how did you fight—and why?
And though you be done to the death, what then?
If you battle the best you could,
If you played your part in the world of men,
Why, the Critic will call it good,
Death comes with a crawl, or comes with a pounce,
And whether he's slow, or spry,
It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts,
But only—how did you die?
—From "Importance of Life."

"This homely philosophy of life," so forcefully stated, merits more than passing notice, for it has to do with every day experiences.

Trouble is the common lot of humanity—so common that it visits every home and sooner or later crosses the pathway of every life.

The news of the day is largely devoted to recording troubles of various kinds, and the time of all the force of the metropolitan press is occupied in this court field.

From the police court to the scandal monger, trouble waits at every corner, and the reading public so thoroughly enjoys other peoples' troubles that no paper is complete without a detailed record.

Harry Thaw little thought when he took the life of his rival that he would hold the center of the stage so long, or that his trouble would land him in a crazy house.

The fable is told of an old oak which had stood the test of storm and buffeting for a century and its gnarled trunk and knotted boughs told the story of the conflict.

An acorn had found rest, across the way, and when the little sprout pushed up through the ground and commenced to plume itself, the old oak was informed, for memory lurked back to a similar awakening.

mer, when not a leaf moved and a lonesome silence filled the atmosphere with forebodings, the old oak said to its young neighbor:
"You can't see it, but from my point of vantage on the topmost bough comes a wireless message, very short but very important, for it keeps repeating, 'Trouble coming.' I don't know what it will be, but see that your anchorage is all right for you may need it."

Soon there rolled up out of the west a heavy black cloud, and the roar of thunder which answered in rapid succession to the vivid lightning flashes, was lost in the mad rush of the oncoming storm.

When the tornado struck the old tree every weakened branch was carried away, while its young companion withered and twisted in the blast and bent low to withstand the shock.

It was only a moment and when the sun came out the young tree shook itself and looking across the way said to his old friend, "Thank God, for your kindly advice. Where would I have been without preparation?" and the old tree said, "You would have been felled for 'some kitchen stove.' The trouble was met and conquered."

The period of childhood and youth is the most important period in any life. Unless habits are formed and principles established, during this careless trouble-free epoch, the boy is liable to become a duffer and the girl a wail before the voyage is fairly launched.

The child is destitute of judgment, and the boy and girl of experience. The parent and teacher lovingly compel obedience until an age is reached where judgment can be appealed to, for there comes an age in the life of every boy and girl where compulsion means rebellion.

Comradeship, prompted by love and an intelligent interest in future welfare, inspires confidence and under these conditions, suggestion and advice are freely followed.

The father and mother know of the trouble ahead and are fully conscious of the fact that the children are to travel the same pathway.

It isn't to save them from trouble, incident to every life, but to prepare them to meet it like men and women, worthy of the name.

A young man turned down his glass, the other night, when who was served. He remembered the mother who kissed him good-bye with her blessing and how selfless she was for his welfare.

The warfare of life, for which there is little excuse, are about the only kind which can be avoided. They come to us with forebodings and without warning. The problem is, how to meet them and not be over-come.

Some people go through life with gnarled bodies, racked with pain, yet meet you with a smiling face, while others cultivate all the diseases to which the human flesh is heir, and imagine that they enjoy the most of them.

A large percentage of all the men engaged in business fail at some time during their career, but a large majority of these failures are due to misfortune rather than dishonesty, and many of the victims profit by experience and rally.

There is no disgrace in honest failure, and trouble which can not be avoided is the common lot. The man who meets misfortune with a brave heart, and comes to the surface with a smiling face, is the man the world has room for, and he is up as soon as down, and ready to renew the conflict.

The steamer Ohio, with 200 passengers, bound from Portland to Alaska, foundered on a dangerous reef, not long ago. The dangerous operator, in his little room, called persistently for help, and the C. Q. D.—come quickly, danger—message sped out through the darkness.

Two steamers, within the zone, caught the startling summons and answered, calling for the latitude, which was quickly given. Then from different directions, with all steam on, came the rescuers, cheered by the messages which said, "Lifeboats launched and laying by. Everybody off but me and I"—there the message stopped, for before the vessel was completed the ill-fated vessel plunged forward and went down with the faithful boy at his post.

His life had attracted but little attention, and his name was hardly known to the little company of frightened people who were shortly after picked up and safely landed, because of his heroic action and tragic death. One of God's common everyday heroes, loyal to duty and fearless in the presence of the last great trouble, forgetful of self and thinking only of the peril which threatened.

"It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts,
But only—how did you die?"

During the past three years the Pennsylvania Railroad company has planted three and a half million trees and is planning to raise a crop of ties. This is practical forestry and other roads are engaged in the same work.

A tall and pompous citizen pursues his stately way. "That man is worth five million bucks," we hear him say. "He's got a million bucks, or half a million less, but being wealthy doesn't mean that you are a success. Of all the gifts the gods bestow, the commonest, I tell you, is that of making them hot. No friction makes them hot. There is no cross roads in the land but has its plunger, some village Astorville, but villages are far between, to judge from late returns, which breed a future Millet or a follower of Burne. It's good to have five million bucks, if they're not comforted; it's nice to chase yourself around, and feel that you are it; but if you have no other claim to confidence and love, the jumping-off place you should seek, and give yourself a shove, I'd rather keep and journey on, with little to disburse, and journey to the beyond in the county poor farm's house, and have folks say I tried my best to do my little part, than leave a lot of rocks behind, and not a mourning heart."

The child is destitute of judgment, and the boy and girl of experience. The parent and teacher lovingly compel obedience until an age is reached where judgment can be appealed to, for there comes an age in the life of every boy and girl where compulsion means rebellion.

Comradeship, prompted by love and an intelligent interest in future welfare, inspires confidence and under these conditions, suggestion and advice are freely followed.

The father and mother know of the trouble ahead and are fully conscious of the fact that the children are to travel the same pathway.

It isn't to save them from trouble, incident to every life, but to prepare them to meet it like men and women, worthy of the name.

A young man turned down his glass, the other night, when who was served. He remembered the mother who kissed him good-bye with her blessing and how selfless she was for his welfare.

The warfare of life, for which there is little excuse, are about the only kind which can be avoided. They come to us with forebodings and without warning. The problem is, how to meet them and not be over-come.

Some people go through life with gnarled bodies, racked with pain, yet meet you with a smiling face, while others cultivate all the diseases to which the human flesh is heir, and imagine that they enjoy the most of them.

A large percentage of all the men engaged in business fail at some time during their career, but a large majority of these failures are due to misfortune rather than dishonesty, and many of the victims profit by experience and rally.

There is no disgrace in honest failure, and trouble which can not be avoided is the common lot. The man who meets misfortune with a brave heart, and comes to the surface with a smiling face, is the man the world has room for, and he is up as soon as down, and ready to renew the conflict.

The steamer Ohio, with 200 passengers, bound from Portland to Alaska, foundered on a dangerous reef, not long ago. The dangerous operator, in his little room, called persistently for help, and the C. Q. D.—come quickly, danger—message sped out through the darkness.

Two steamers, within the zone, caught the startling summons and answered, calling for the latitude, which was quickly given. Then from different directions, with all steam on, came the rescuers, cheered by the messages which said, "Lifeboats launched and laying by. Everybody off but me and I"—there the message stopped, for before the vessel was completed the ill-fated vessel plunged forward and went down with the faithful boy at his post.

His life had attracted but little attention, and his name was hardly known to the little company of frightened people who were shortly after picked up and safely landed, because of his heroic action and tragic death. One of God's common everyday heroes, loyal to duty and fearless in the presence of the last great trouble, forgetful of self and thinking only of the peril which threatened.

"It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts,
But only—how did you die?"

During the past three years the Pennsylvania Railroad company has planted three and a half million trees and is planning to raise a crop of ties. This is practical forestry and other roads are engaged in the same work.

From President Taft's Chicago speech it will be inferred that the labor vote will have no cause for complaint. The president has never been a very large employer of organized labor.

We have full lines in Drugs, Perfumes, Patent Medicines, Paints, and they must be sold before Oct. 10th, at any price. A choice lot of China, Glassware, Soda Tables, Show Cases, Etc.

Our two large Aquariums will be sold to the best offer, no matter how low the offer.

BEFORE there was competition we used to pay $3.00 for telephone service, in our residences and you only had 300 people to talk to.

Now you get a Rock County Residence phone for $1 per month and connect with nearly 2000 homes.

This is what competition does for the telephone subscriber.

Within the last few weeks a strong effort was made by some of our largest stockholders to sell our company to the Wisconsin (Bell) Telephone Co. Thus creating a monopoly in the telephone business in Janesville.

Had this deal been consummated, telephone rates would have been about doubled, as has been done in every city where the Bell Company succeeded in obtaining full control.

It was only by tremendous effort on the part of our loyal stockholders that this monopoly deal was defeated.

If you appreciate what we have done for you, give us your business.

For the same price charged by our competitor for a residence phone, we can give you connection with double the number of people. And we can give you a business phone for $6.00 per year less than our competitor charges.

There need be no fear of a telephone monopoly being effected in Janesville for the reason that the stock owned by the faction that wanted to sell out to the Bell Company has been purchased by parties who are loyal to the independent cause.

DENTAL CHAT

It certainly is pleasant to have a man come into my office and talk like one did the other day. Said he, "Dr. Richards, I wish some more dental work."

"The work you did for me two years ago is there yet. Sound and all right." Yet it is easy to be critical and get to be a knacker.

Really, I think it requires studied effort to get the habit of seeing something to praise in people.

But it pays you personally to see the good in people around you and it brings out the best there is in the man whom you thus encourage.

Now I want you to see the good that is in my work.

I am doing my best to put out reliable work for everybody.

At the same time, I keep busy trying to avoid causing folks pain in all my work.

People notice this once in a while and that helps some.

OWNER OF 97 BANKS HAS COUSINS HERE

W. S. William of Atlanta, Georgia, Was Prominent Figure at the Bankers' Convention.

One of the interesting characters at the American Bankers' convention at the headquarters in Chicago this week was W. S. William of Atlanta, Ga., who owns or controls ninety-seven banks in his native state, Florida, New Jersey, and New York. The newspaper notices given him are of interest to stock country people owing to the fact that his father and his brothers and consequently Lorenzo and William H. William of this city are first cousins. During the late Ward William's lifetime he visited in Janesville. About his vast financial interests one of the publications quoted him as follows:

"I had ninety-seven yesterday, but I don't understand it right now, and I don't know how many I have now."

"You used to own 104 at one time, didn't you, Mr. William?" asked a crowd.

"Yes, I did, but I sold a couple, with- out from a few more, traded them, and bought two more. So I guess I have about ninety-seven now."

"Of these, eighty-seven are in Georgia, and for the sake of variety I have ten others scattered in Florida and New Jersey, and of course, to keep up with things, I have a few around in New York."

WIFE LEFT BECAUSE HE GAVE WRONG NAME

Mrs. Charles Bartlett Deserted Husband Because He Married Her as Elmer Bartlett.

Because her husband swore to a false name in his application for a marriage license and was married under the assumed cognomen, pretty Mrs. Charles Bartlett, nee Alice Marston, left him, and returned to her former home in New York City. Papers pending for an annulment of the marriage were filed yesterday in the circuit court.

The couple were wedded May 1 in Rockford, Bartlett, as he is known in the line city, giving his name to the county clerk and Justice Manlove who married them as Elmer Bartlett. Up until a few weeks ago the woman was unaware of the apparent deception on the man's part, but learning of it, she went to Rockford to have the certificate corrected. She presented the paper to Justice Manlove and was referred to County Clerk Norton, who was unable to help the young woman out as the groom had given his name as Bartlett, sworn to in the application, and signed it as Elmer Bartlett. She was unable to learn from her husband and it is believed that this prompted her to leave him.

YOUNGSTERS STOLE CITIZENS' GRAPES

Complaints Were Made and Ten Lads Were Haled Before Chief Appleby and Lectured.

That a gang of small boys have been stealing grapes and other fruit during the early hours of the evening, has been the complaint received at the police office during the past few days from citizens whose green goods have been appropriated during the raids. J. P. Schoof of Fifth street in particular have been the unwilling donors of much of the stolen fruit and objected strenuously to the honor of being hosts to a hungry mob. Last night Officer Brown lay in wait for the nocturnal visitors and escorted ten of them to the police office, where they had the pleasure of listening to a forceful lecture delivered by Chief Appleby in person on properly rights and the duties and penalties awaiting those who disregard the law. The prisoners who were allowed to go after being warned that something more severe than a lecture would be their portion if they repeated their offense.

SCIENCE NOTES

An automatic book reading machine has been devised abroad by which it is possible to hire a book for a short period or to buy it. The machine holds about a dozen or fifteen books, which are arranged so as to display their titles. Its operation is controlled by two slots, one of which represents the value of the book and the other the time. In order to secure the volume the required amount must be placed in each slot, and when the book has been read and returned, the amount representing the value is returned automatically.

In military maneuvers the infantry must do more or less work under cover, and it is frequently essential for the soldier to work his way along the surface of the ground by creeping or crawling. In order to facilitate this a genius of Stuttgart has invented a device consisting of wheels, rollers or runners, attached to a frame or to tent poles, knapsacks or other suitable parts of the equipment. The utility of this invention remains to be proved by practical experience, but there can be no question of its novelty and originality.

The standard "carat" has been established in France by an act of parliament, which decrees that it shall be known as the "metric carat," and the term shall be employed to designate a weight of 200th grains or 200 milligrams. The use of the word to designate any other weight is prohibited. It is entirely likely that the action of the French government will be followed by several others and the term will soon have the same significance all the world over.

Lifting magnets have demonstrated their value in certain special lines of work and are now in daily use in many places. An aggregate weight of 15 tons of rails is handled by magnets at the works of the United States Steelplant at Gary, Ind. This comprises the "lock section" of a pile of rails which consists of a layer of tracks with alternate rails inverted so that the mass will hold together.

For the purpose of protecting a telephone or telegraph pole from horses, which destroy the pole by gnawing the wood away, a machine has been recently invented for wrapping such poles with wire. This has been done by hand for sometime, but it is a tedious operation and one which is very hard to do adequately. With the machine four or five feet may be wrapped in 15 minutes, and besides the rapidity, the work is done in a very superior manner. The machine carries a reel of wire, and is mounted on four grooved rollers, which bear against the pole, being held in contact by the tension of a spiral spring. A cutter wheel is mounted on the machine, which serves to cut a spiral groove for the wire, the pitch of the groove may be varied by adjusting the cutter, so that the wire may be wrapped closely or otherwise, as desired. The device is also available where poles are to be spliced.

The statement is made on the authority of the Railway Age, a magazine that with the exception of about 12 magazines, is a chain of automatic block signals from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The lines thus equipped, make a total of 3,243 miles, including the Lehigh Valley Railroad, from Jersey City to Buffalo; the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway to Chicago; the Chicago and Northwestern Railway to Council Bluffs; the Union Pacific Railroad to Ogden, and the Southern Pacific to Oakland.

Remembered the Cats.

All the cats in Ireland would purr their grateful regard for the late Miss Alice Mary Swift, of Earlsfort Mansions, Dublin, if they knew the provisions of her will. About $22,000, more than half the amount of her estate, is left to cats—that is to say, is devoted for their benefit. Of this, $20,000 goes to the Dublin Home for Foraken and Starving Cats for the support of the home and for the chloroform chambers, where cats may be put painlessly to death. Miss Swift was always down on vivisection, and a clause in her will provided that if ever any of the cats are used for vivisection or anatomical purposes the bequest shall be void; $500 is left to the chief of the Irish constabulary, and any person who prosecutes any one for cruelty to cats will receive $10 out of the income.

You Are Invited to See and Taste These Home-Grown Raspberries and Grapes

On free exhibition today and tomorrow in the display window of J. P. Baker's Drug Store. You should taste these ripe, red raspberries and sweet purple grapes and prove to yourself their delicate, delightful flavor.

The raspberries were grown by John Timmons, 1402 Myra Ave., on the famous Columbian Nursery stock planted this last spring by E. Ellsworth, Nurseryman. The bushes commenced bearing on July 10th and have yielded berries ever since. They will continue to bear at least two more weeks, making a bearing period of two and one-half months. Mr. Timmons can be reached at old phone number 3724 and will verify these facts.

The grapes were gathered from the vines of Mr. Edward Poenichen, 841 Sutherland Ave. These vines were planted in the spring of 1908 by E. Ellsworth. There are 5,000 vines and it is estimated that they will bear on average of five pounds to the vine this season. Mr. Poenichen can be reached by telephone, old No. 5071, New No. 078 Blue.

E. E. Ellsworth handles a general line of highest grade nursery stock. It is guaranteed to be perfect, northern grown stock and every bit as good as represented. Mr. Ellsworth can furnish the very best references from his many pleased customers.

If you are planning to buy nursery goods, you should by all means get Ellsworth's prices before you purchase.

Opportunity--Will You Grasp It?

Every young person is interested in the problem of, "How Shall I Reach the Greatest Success?" The present wonderful prosperity of our great country indicates that there has been a great awakening. Panicky feelings and fear of wrong conditions have been thrown off and legitimate business enterprises feel the thrill of new life. Well-established business houses are expanding, new enterprises are being launched, and there is work for all who are willing to work and are capable of doing what this practical, progressive age requires done.

But there will be high-grade work and low-grade work, with a corresponding degree of compensation. If you are content to do all your life the drudgery of the world, you must be content with the pay that COMMONPLACE SERVICE commands. But if you aspire to be something more than a mere competitor of a machine and wish to reap the rewards of BRAIN SERVICE you must have your brain powers cultivated and developed. You have the brain power but it is undeveloped. All that is required for success in this work is to bring out and develop this latent power. You must be trained for the kind of service that the world is willing to reward. And so, young man, young woman,

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"BUT I am perfectly comfortable and satisfied without the vote. What's the use of trying to get it?"

That—one of the great leaders of the suffrage movement told me the other day—is the hardest argument that the suffragists have to deal with. And then she told me of one particular woman who had refused to give her support to the movement on that ground.

The schools in the city where this woman lived were poor. She did not feel the need of a vote to make them better—she sent her children to private school.

The water inspectors were notoriously inefficient and in the hottest part of the summer there was a typhoid epidemic. She did not feel the need of a vote to get those men out of office—she and her family were away in the mountains all through those months of danger.

The city was the largest in the United States without playgrounds. She did not feel the need of a vote to put men in office who would provide some places to allow the street for her children to play in—her own house was surrounded by beautiful lawns and gardens.

When Marie Antoinette, at the time of the French Revolution, was told that the common people were rising against the nobility because they did not have bread to eat, she asked in wonder, "Then why don't they eat cake?"

"What's the use of changing conditions?" says the lady who has so much of the cake of life that she doesn't know what it means to need bread, and rather wonders why the people who lack it don't eat cake.

Are you a suffragist?

If you are not, and it is because you have studied the subject and believe with all your heart that the country would lose more than it would gain if women were allowed to vote, then I disagree with you but still honor you.

If it is because you know nothing about the subject and either are too comfortable or too indifferent to try to know anything about it, I am thoroughly ashamed of you.

And you ought to be thoroughly ashamed of yourself. No woman has a right to remain ignorant of any great movement, the result of which would affect her sex.

If women got the ballot and it does them harm, it is your fault for not having opposed it.

If women fail to get the ballot when good might have resulted, it is your fault for not having fought for it.

"But I have not enough influence to make any difference one way or the other," perhaps you say. Let me recall to you a little rhyme so very homely and familiar that you may have forgotten how great a meaning it has—

"Little drop of water,
Little drop of sand,
Make the mighty ocean
And the bounteous land."

TOOL DISPLAY RACK

Revolving Standard Has Slits to Hold Many Implements.

Dealers in hardware particularly will be interested in the display rack invented by an Illinois man. On this rack a great variety of implements may be exhibited, all in plain view and in such a way that it is not necessary for customers to handle them and run the risk of being cut on a sharp edge. The rack consists of a revolving standard, with disks, which are equipped with radial tongues. The space between the tongues form slots, in which the various tools for sale may be hung. Long implements, such as

As the cut shows, the disks are of different sizes and arranged one above the other in the order of their usefulness. The standard is made of several sections and may be adjusted to any height convenient.

There Are Many Ways To Attract Attention

Anent Program Advertising.

But they are not all good ways and from an advertising viewpoint not profitable ways.

WHAT CAN YOU SELL A WOMAN AT A FAIR, AT A SHOW OR OTHER ENTERTAINMENT? You may attract her attention with an advertisement on a program, but won't she resent the intrusion? Even if there be no resentment she is in no frame of mind to think of buying. And too, the program method is the very most expensive kind of publicity. Usually a fat price is charged for a few hundred circulation, and the proceeds are divided between the solicitor who gets the ads and institution for which the program is issued. Cases are known where the solicitor gets 60, 60 and as high as 85 per cent for his work and the balance goes to the printer, the institution receiving their programs without cost. Some program solicitors do not tell the whole truth. If ever you feel that you have been induced to use program advertising ask the solicitor how many copies will be printed and distributed and how they will be distributed. If the rate is more than 30 per square inch of space per thousand distribution, it's too much. If the charge is $3.00 for a space that is worth 15c and you feel that you want to give the difference as "charity," GIVE IT BY ALL MEANS, but do not give your consent to the ad, for if you do you are usually giving charity to a person who is undeserving, not to the CAUSE, as you suppose.

PROGRAM ADVERTISING IS A LEACH UPON THE ADVERTISING PROFESSION. It sucks the life blood of merchants and others, who would reap the right results from their advertising appropriations if it was properly placed. Program advertising is the shoal upon which is based the oft-repeated remark that "Advertising is too expensive."

placed. Program advertising is the shoal upon which is based the oft-repeated remark that "Advertising is too expensive."

Program advertising disheartens many beginners in advertising because there are NO RESULTS. Results are almost impossible for the reason that there is virtually no distribution, and because it's a very inopportune time to reach the people.

If the CAUSE for which the program is being prepared be a worthy one and you wish to help it along, DONATE your money direct to the secretary, but keep your advertising out of the program, for it is not a good advertising proposition.

In Jansville The Gazette is pre-eminently the best advertising medium for you if you do business with the general public.

First, because it reaches more than 5 times as many homes as does any Daily or Weekly newspaper in Rock county (excepting Beloit) and, second, because its rates for advertising space are less than one-fifth as high as the rates of any other newspaper based on actual paid circulation.

Third, because 13 homes are reached with a full page advertisement for a penny, which compared to circulars, bills, dodgers, programs, etc., is much more economical.

And because The Gazette is a medium with an entree to the inner home, the fireside, where people read and rest and consider what they read.

Newspaper advertising differs from all other mediums in that it does not intrude. It goes into the home with the news, it is there, it attracts, but it waits its turn.

JANESVILLE TEAM
WON GOLF TOURNEY

Local Players Defeated Fifteen of Madison Club by Score of Twenty-eight to Twelve.

Fifteen members of the Maple Bluff Golf club of Madison were defeated by a team of local golfers in the tourney held at the Sunnyside links yesterday by a score of twenty-eight to twelve. In the second, the Sunnyside team was beaten. The winner of the first nine holes was given one point; the winner of the second nine scored a point; and the third point went to the player who won the match of eighteen holes.

The visitors spent the morning in playing over the course and getting acquainted with it. At noon the guests and the local contestants took lunch at the club house. Most of the Madison team returned last evening to the Capital City.

The score in detail was as follows:
Al. Schaller, 2; Frank Jacobs, 1.
Moran, 2; Mason, 1.
Brownell, 2; Roy, 1.
Sutherland, 1; Wheeler, 2.
Inack, 0; Treasler, 3.

VETERANS' REUNION
CLOSED LAST NIGHT

Public Invited to Final Session in Post
Hall Last Evening—Fine Program Given.

The final session of the nineteenth annual reunion of the Third Wisconsin Veteran Volunteer Infantry association, a meeting opened to the public, was held last evening at the G.
A. R. hall. With the singing of the song, "America," by the audience, under the leadership of Mrs. Winkler, the interesting program was opened.
The address of welcome was delivered by J. P. Carle, who spoke of the pleasure of the local veterans in welcoming the visitors. Captain Stanley of Green Bay responded. His speech was followed by a song by Mrs. Winkler and a dramatic reading by Mrs. J.
D. Day, both of which were heartily applauded and enjoyed.

Principal H. C. Buell of the high school was the speaker of the evening.
He extolled the regiment and dwelt on the fact that two of its colonels, Col. Hamilton and Col. Ruge-r, had, during the war, been advanced to the rank of general. This reward for efficiency was due as much to the men who made up the regiment as to the leaders, for had there not been competent men in the ranks, the ability of the chiefs would probably not have been so highly rewarded. He told of the cause for which those men gave their services and their lives in history. One of the greatest philosophers, he said, had placed service as the highest form of human attainment and those men, the soldiers who fought in the Civil War, rendered a service which was national in its character.

The program was closed with a song, "Fighting on the Old Camp Ground."

Strive to See the Bright Side.
A fatal penalty awaits those who always look on the dark side of everything, who are always predicting evil and failure, who see only the seamy, disagreeable side of life; they draw upon themselves what they see, what they look for.—Marden.

HIGH REVEL IN AUGUEAN STABLES

Second Act of the Gay Morning Glory
Burlesque Show Transcended All Bounds of Decency.

Several hundred men and boys, including city officials and leading professional and businessmen, witnessed the performance given by the Gay Morning Glory burlesquers at the Mevora theatre last evening and got all they paid for, and then some. Rockford had found the show, on the previous evening, a harmless musical comedy melange, with plenty of catchy songs, good vaudeville stunts, and a wealth of attractive scenery and costumes. But Rockford was favored with the expurgated edition. The during swing of the fairies and the Milling dance which closed the performance, as recounted here, almost warranted police interference, and the horse-play in the second act transcended all limits of decency. No fouler pantomime or juggling with words was ever permitted on a local platform. It is a and commentary on present-day civilization and progress that able character actors, like Edward Smalley, will prostitute their art to pander to the lowest human instincts and conceptions of humor. It is a sadder one that in these times of almost daily new discoveries and triumphs to thrill and uplift the human mind, men and boys will linger in the backlot of life to chortle gleefully over the cleaning of the Augean stables. No wonder some of them wriggle unbecomingly in their seats when the spotlight shines on them in such a way that they may be seen in the future carry on the work intended for them to do, but on the contrary, weaken the organs by doing their work for them. A bad stomach

HELD IN MAYBELLE MILLMAN
MURDER CASE
DR. GEORGE A. FRITCH

Detroit, Mich.—Dr. George A.
Fritch for the third time comes under suspicion of having caused the death of a young woman through a criminal operation. The second case in the annals of the minds of the people of Michigan, that of Miss Edith Presley, died in Hope sanatorium, 1148 Third avenue, April 21, 1907, where according to the statement of the proprietor of the place, an operation was performed upon her and she died the following day. Her body was removed by order of Dr. Fritch. It was alleged to a west end undertaking establishment, where the fact of a criminal operation was learned. Dr.
Fritch's defense was that he had been called only after the operation had been performed by some one else. Representative Ward was tried for manslaughter for procuring the operation, but was released by Judge Connelly because the prosecution failed to disprove his statement and prove the operation to have been criminal one.
It was after Ward's release that the prosecutor nolle prossed the case against Fritch.

The first case of the kind overshadowing Dr. Fritch was that of Miss Mollie Hueger of 755 Eighth street.
Another doctor was arrested at the time, but both were released because of lack of evidence.

EASY FOOD
Ready For Instant Use Without Cooking.

Almost everyone likes a cereal food of some kind at breakfast and supper, but the ordinary way of cooking cereals results in a sticky mass that is hard to digest and if not properly digested, the raw mass goes down into the intestinal tract where gas is generated and trouble follows.
Everyone knows that good food properly digested keeps the body well, while poor food, or even food of good quality that is poorly prepared and not digested, is sure to bring on some kind of disease.

The easiest of food to digest in this line is Grape-Nuts, made from wheat and barley, and cooked thoroughly at the factory, some 12 to 16 hours being consumed in the different processes of preparation. The food, therefore, is ready for instant service and the starch has been changed to a form of sugar, so that it is pre-digested and ready for almost immediate absorption.

A Chicago young lady writes that she suffered for years from indigestion and dyspepsia from the use of food that was not suitable to her powers of digestion. She says:
"I began using Grape-Nuts, and I confess to having had a prejudice at first, and was repeatedly urged before I finally decided to try the food, but I have not known what indigestion is since using it, and have never been stronger or in better health. I have increased in weight from 109 to 121 pounds."

People can be well, practically without food, if they will adopt scientific fast and leave off the indigestible sort.

"There's a Reason."
Grape-Nuts food is crisp and delicious to the taste. It should be served exactly as it comes from the package, without cooking, except in cases where it is made up into puddings and other desserts.—Book of delicious recipes, per, sent free.

NEW PASTOR COMING TO ASSUME CHARGE

Rev. A. L. Whitcomb and Family Will Arrive in Evansville Next Week to Take Duties Immediately.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Evansville, Sept. 17.—Rev. A. L.
Whitcomb and family will arrive from Los Angeles, California, some time next week and will take up their residence in the Mocking house on Church street. Rev. Whitcomb has been appointed as pastor of the Free Methodist church here and will preach his first sermon Sunday, Sept.
26. The family will receive a warm welcome as they are not strangers to our people. Mr. Whitcomb has been pastor of the sanctuary from 1895 to 1900 and during that period made a host of friends, who are much pleased over the prospect of his returning.

After winning first honors in a contest and receiving the appointment as court reporter at Miles City, Montana, Vincent North, son of Rev. and Mrs.
T. W. North of this city, found that he was barred from holding the position on account of his youth, as he still lacked six months of being twenty-one years of age. This was a keen disappointment to Mr. North as the position was worth something over three thousand dollars a year, and

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, September 18, 1869.—Base Ball.—A large concourse of people assembled at the Fair Grounds yesterday to witness the game of ball between the Whitewater Athletics and the Mutuals of Janesville, for the purse offered by the association. Mr. C. L. Valentine was selected to fill the position of umpire, and discharged the duties in a fair and impartial manner. The Mutuals winning the toss, sent the Athletes to bat. For five innings the game promised to be very evenly contested, but in the sixth inning the Mutuals got into a regular batting streak and before the last man was out scored seventeen runs giving them a commanding lead which they kept until the close of the game. In the seventh the Athletics received their first and only blunder, the Mutuals batting well for seven runs, this left the score 50 to 24, and as it was left ting to be dark the game was called at this point. Except the batting there was no remarkable playing on either side. Heller gobbled a ball in beautiful style, and St. John and Heller on slashing hits to center made clean home runs. At the close of the game the Athletics gave three cheers for the champions of Wisconsin, which the Mutuals returned with a will. We cannot speak too highly of the Athletics who are all perfect gentlemen. The final score of the game was 50 to 24.

Success Of The Fair.—The fair closed this afternoon, and notwithstanding the rainy days of Tuesday and Wednesday, and other unfavorable circumstances it must be pronounced quite as successful when everything is considered, as any had any reason to expect. A great number of entries of all kinds were kept back and especially in the live stock department, by the unpropitious weather, but there was still a respectable show, and some branches quite as good as was looked for. The receipts of the fair on Thursday reached the handsome sum of $2,400 and the aggregate receipts for the fair will be about $4,000. The receipts at the state fair when held here in 1863 were only $7,000, $3,000 in 1865, and in '66 with Gen. Sherman here and other great attractions, the gross receipts were only $12,000; so that judged by a preliminary test, our fair must be voted a success.

Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, New Head of Schools at Harvard.

Boston, Mass.—The health school opened at Harvard this year for the first time, is not a new idea but it has not as yet been popularized. This remains for Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, the school's new head. But what is a

The result was that in less than half an hour, Lady Maud heard from Spino a most extraordinary tale, of which she did not believe a single word. To her plain English mind it all seemed perfectly mad at first, and on reflection she thought it an outrageous attempt to play upon her credulity; whereas she was thoroughly convinced that the girl had come to grief in some way through Logothetti and had followed him from Constantinople, probably supporting herself and her companion by stealing on the way. Lady Maud's husband had been a brute, but he knew the east tolerably well, having done some military duty in the Caucasus before he entered the diplomatic service; his stories had vividly illustrated the profound duplicity of all Asiatics, and she had not seen any reason to disbelieve them.

When Spino had nothing more to say, therefore, she rose from the only seat there was and shook her head with an air of utter incredulity, mingled with the sort of pitying contempt she felt for all lying in general. She could easily follow the case, by the help of the sergeant and the police court reports, and she might be able to help Baraka hereafter when the girl had served the sentence she would certainly get for such an important and cleverly managed theft. The poor girl implored and wept in vain; Lady Maud could do nothing, and would not stay to be told any more of the strange tales of Spino in Tartary. She called the sergeant, freed herself from Baraka's despairing hold on her hand and went out. And when she thought of what must have gone before, and of the part Logothetti had almost certainly played in the girl's life, her anger was roused, and she sat down and wrote to Margaret on the impulse of the moment. She gave a detailed account of her experience at the police station, including especially a description of the way Baraka had behaved in trying to send a message to Logothetti.

"I tell you quite frankly," Lady Maud wrote in conclusion, "that my friend Mr. Van Torp has begged me very urgently to use any friendly influence I may possess, to induce you to reconsider your engagement, because he hopes that you will accept him instead. You will not think any less well of him for that. A man may ask his best friend to help him to marry the girl he is in love with, I am sure! I told him that I would not do anything to make trouble between you and Logo. If I am making trouble now, by writing all this, it is therefore not to help Mr. Van Torp, but because the impression I have had about Logo has really frightened me, for you. I made such a wretched failure of my own married life that I have some right to warn a friend who seems to be on the point of doing just the same thing. You have a right to be sure that the man you marry is quite free, and that you won't suddenly meet a lovely eastern girl of 20 who claims him after you think he is yours; and your friend has a right to warn you, if she feels sure that he is mixed up in some affair that isn't over yet."

"I don't know where Logo is, but if he were near enough I should go to him and tell him what I think. Of course he is not in town now—nobody is, and I've only stayed on to clear everything out of my house, now that I'm giving it up. I suppose he is with you, though you said you did not want him at Bayreuth! Show him this letter if you like, for I'm quite ready to face him if he's angry at my interference. I would even join you in Paris, if you wanted me, for I have nothing to do and strange to say I have a little money! I've sold almost all my furniture, you know, so I'm not such a total pauper as usual. But in any case answer this, please, and tell me that I have done right, or wrong, just as you feel about it—and then we will go on here."

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive. Don't dally with "uric acid solvents." You might go on till doomsday with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Don't's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is Janesville testimony to prove it.

Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, 260 West Bluff St., Janesville, Wis., says: "It is a pleasure for me to publicly recommend so valuable a remedy as Don't's Kidney Pills. I have used them and know they are all that is claimed for them. I suffered a great deal during the past ten years from rheumatism and kidney trouble. Since I began using Don't's Kidney Pills, procured from the People's Drug Co., I have felt much better. I hope other people who suffer from disordered kidneys will try Don't's Kidney Pills."

DR. COOK NOW BRINGS PROOF

WIRELESS MESSAGE SENT FROM SEA DENIES CHARGES MADE BY PEARY.

SAYS HE CAUSED SECRECY

Induced Eskimos and Harry Whitney Not to Tell of His Discovery of Pole—Declares He Was Robbed—Peary Aide Shot.

On Board the Steamship Oscar II, at Sea, Sept. 18.—(Via Marconi wireless telegraph to Cape Race, N. F.)—Interesting new information on his discovery of the north pole has been given to passengers aboard ship by Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who is impatiently counting the hours between him and New York, where he will land Monday or Tuesday. To-day he sent the following message to the American people:

"Tell the people of America to have the fullest confidence in my conquest of the pole. I have records of observations made by me which will prove my claim. I shall be glad to again set my foot on American soil."

Dr. Cook discussed freely the assertions of Commander Peary that he had never reached the north pole and spoke of the charges that brought about dissensions between the two explorers.

Trouble Over His Supplies.

When he departed for the north Dr. Cook said he left a depot of provisions at Anaktok, north of Etah, in charge of Rudolph Franke and several Eskimos.

"Commander Peary found my supply depot at Anaktok," Dr. Cook said, "and the Eskimos in charge told him that I was dead, which they fully believed to be true at the time. Peary placed two men in charge of the depot, Boatswain Murphy and another, Harry Whitney, the New Haven hunter, who remained there."

"When I returned from the pole, unexpectedly, Harry Whitney was the first to see me and to tell me what had occurred. Whitney was placed in possession of the facts concerning my journey to the pole, on condition that he would not inform Commander Peary or his men of them."

Told Eskimos to Keep Still.

"At the same time the Eskimos who had accompanied me north were told to maintain the strictest silence," Dr. Cook said he was intensely annoyed at this alleged wrongful use of his supplies and threatened to kick out Murphy and his companions. Finally, however, he consented to their remaining at the depot as there was no other shelter in the vicinity for them.

"On one occasion Murphy asked me abruptly, 'Have you been beyond 87?' Dr. Cook said, 'But I was determined not to let Peary know of my movements and replied evasively that I had been much further north. From this statement has been connected the declaration that I had said that I had not reached the pole.'

Dr. Cook declared that neither Harry Whitney nor his (Cook's) records are on board the steamer Roosevelt, and that therefore Peary's information concerning him emanated from Boatswain Murphy, who knew nothing of his movement. Dr. Cook said also that he had made arrangements for the two Eskimos who went with him to the pole, and Knud Rasmussen, whom he met in Greenland, to go to New York and confirm the story of his discovery.

Story Impresses Passengers.

All the passengers are impressed by the sincerity of Dr. Cook as indicated by his conversation with them in regard to his discovery of the pole. He says that the Danes, with whom he lived for several months, are acquainted with the whole story of his exploit; that he also provided the Danish government with the fullest proofs of his achievements and that he is now prepared to lay these proofs before a competent body in America.

Dr. Cook expressed astonishment that the news of the discovery of the pole had created such a sensation and is anxious to learn what specific declarations Commander Peary has made to minimize his exploit in order that he may formulate replies to them. He said he could have reached civilization at the end of August, but was occupied with his writing.

In a lecture in the saloon of the steamer Dr. Cook, with the aid of a map drawn by an engineer, gave an outline of his route to the pole.

Journey Nothing Wonderful.

"The journey was nothing really wonderful," he said. "I used no new devices or inventions. I had, however, every necessary instrument, but kept these to pure necessities."

"The reason for my success is that I returned to the primitive life—in fact, became a savage, sacrificed all comforts to the race for the pole. The Eskimos generally kept up their courage, but Ahwahli, two days before we reached the pole, despaired and said, 'It is good to die; it is impossible to go beyond.' However, I cheered him up and he never complained afterwards, undergoing all hardships with cheerfulness."

Their Clothing Worn Out.

In conversation with the passengers Dr. Cook has thrown some light on his experiences during the long journey to the pole and return. He has explained to them how the clothing of the members of the party wore down to rags and the Eskimos were obliged to devote their time to the making of fresh garments. The explorer and his companions possessed no thread with which to sew skins together and therefore unraveled their stockings and used the wool for thread. The Eskimos, he said, proved capital tailors and made comfortable apparel. None of the party suffered the slightest from frost bites. They possessed no eating utensils and their light was obtained from musk ox fat and a wick of dried moss. The party was compelled to exercise the greatest economy in their matches, the expenditure of which was limited to two each day.

One of Peary's Aides Shot. Battle Harbor, Labrador, Sept. 18.—(Via Marconi wireless telegraph to Cape Race, N. F.)—Prof. Donald H. McMillan of Worcester, Mass., one of Peary's aides in his polar expeditions, was wounded on August 11 by being shot while on board the Roosevelt. He has since recovered and now appears in good health. He will return with Peary on the Roosevelt in a few days.

Prof. McMillan was injured soon after a party returned from a walrus hunting trip. One of the party, while cleaning a gun, accidentally discharged it. The bullet penetrated a partition and struck Prof. McMillan on the shoulder.

Says Cook Could Have Won.

Commander Peary, when again asked if it were possible for Dr. Cook to have reached the pole, replied: "That would have been possible. Traveling by another route, he could have reached the pole without my knowing it. That is not admitting that he did so. In my latest and successful effort to reach the pole, I was favored by the wind. There were no strong gales either to the eastward or westward to break up the ice. Any one properly equipped could have reached the pole over the route I took."

"Will you make an effort to reach the south pole?" was asked. "I shall leave future active explorations to younger men. Mrs. Peary says I shall not go on another dash to either pole, and that settles it."

After a week of rest for the crew of the Roosevelt there is bustle and activity on all sides as the men put the finishing touches to the vessel, preparatory to the start for Sydney.

Receives the Correspondents.

Commander Peary received Capt. Dikson, of the Canadian government steamer Tyrann, and half an hour later he welcomed the newspaper correspondents who came up to Battle Harbor on the Tyrann. One of the first things he did was to go to the quarterdeck of the Roosevelt and face a battery of cameras. When the pictures had been taken Commander Peary and the correspondents all went ashore to the loft of a fish house on the wharf, where the explorer became the target for a broadside of questions.

In explaining to the newspaper men what he considered the scientific value of polar exploration, Commander Peary said he had taken soundings of the sea from Cape Sheridan to the pole which supplemented the similar data taken on the other side by Nansen and Cagni. Continuing he argued that north polar exploration is much more difficult than the same work in the antarctic. In the arctic the work must all be done in one season, while the south pole eventually will be reached by several seasons of work. It being possible for exploring parties to push forward and hold the ground covered instead of turning back to winter quarters on the limits of civilization.

Commander Peary described the celebration of Christmas day, the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving day and St. Patrick's day in the far north. On Christmas they had a dinner and a distribution of presents that had been brought with this celebration in mind.

Leaves Battle Harbor To-day.

Hullfax, N. S., Sept. 18.—A dispatch received here last night from Commander Peary at Battle Harbor says that he would leave Battle Harbor to-day and will arrive in Sydney on Tuesday.

"RED" AHEAD" FOR "ENGLAND."

Lord Bessford Sees Danger of a European War.

New York, Sept. 18.—Admiral Lord Charles Bessford, for 50 years a figure in the British navy, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given at the Lawyers' club, under the auspices of the Pilgrims of the United States. In a brief address, Lord Bessford, referring to the European situation, remarked that as far as Great Britain was concerned the situation looked somewhat "red ahead" and there was nothing else to do but for the nation to come forward with a great scheme of imperial defense.

"Supremacy at sea," he said, "means life or death for the British empire. It is quite different with the United States, which would by its own natural resources take care of the nation's needs. It is most important for the British speaking nations to prevent war."

DISAGREE ON SUTTON DEATH.

Doctors Are at Odds Whether Lieutenant Shot Himself.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Beyond still firmly holding to the opinion that Lieut. James N. Sutton's death was not occasioned by a shot fired by himself, either intentionally or accidentally, Henry B. Davis, counsel for Mrs. Rosa B. Sutton, in making public the report of Dr. George Tully Vaughan, who assisted on behalf of Mrs. Sutton in performing the autopsy upon the body of the dead naval officer, declared that he had no further comment to make upon the report. Mr. Davis does say, however, that he is entirely satisfied with Dr. Vaughan's "very clear and specific report."

Surgeon Raymond Spear of the navy has reported that Sutton shot himself, either accidentally or with suicidal intent.

TRAIN BANDITS BEING HUNTED

POSSES SCOUR COLORADO MOUNTAINS FOR DYNAMITERS OF EXPRESS CAR.

MISS CASH IN STRONG BOX

Officials Claim Daring Work of Five Outlaws Gained Them Nothing, Though Wrecked Safe Contained Large Amount of Cash.

Leadville, Col., Sept. 18.—It is believed to-day that the bandits who attempted to rob the Denver and Rio Grande train Thursday night, will be captured before many hours pass by the scores of railroad and express company detectives who are after them.

The express car was dynamited. According to the trainmen no booty was secured.

It is believed the robbers crawled onto the two engines of the train at Malta. The train had proceeded but a short distance when two men crawled over the tenders and compelled the engineers and firemen to march back to the express car.

Engineer Smith of the first engine was told to hammer on the door and order the express messenger to open it. The latter refused, and a charge of dynamite was placed under it and the door blown open.

Wreck by Dynamite. Three of the robbers rushed in, covering the express messenger with revolvers. Several charges of dynamite were placed under the safe but without result except to wreck the interior of the car.

Firing a volley, the robbers fled in the darkness. One of the trainmen in the meantime had reached Malta and Sheriff Campbell with a posse at once started in pursuit.

It is said the safe contained a large sum of money. The train was known as the Chicago and San Francisco express.

Flee to the Mountains.

Denver, Col., Sept. 18.—A posse is still in pursuit of the outlaws who held up the Denver & Rio Grande train near Malta, Col.

It has been found that there were but three men in the gang. They are in the mountains and every pass believed to be available for the escape of the bandits is being searched.

The officials of the Globe Express Company, whose safe was attacked, made a statement that the car which was dynamited by the robbers was in fact the car containing the funds sought. The safe contained a large sum, how large the officials refuse to make known. It was at first believed that the express money was in the first section of the train.

It is practically certain that the bandits climbed aboard the tenders of the engines at Malta and awaited their opportunity to hold up the engineers. Although there were a number of shots fired, none was hurt. The express car was partially wrecked by dynamite, Dan Shea, the express messenger, who refused to open the express safe at the risk of his life, has been commended by the officials of the company.

THE MOST NOTED NONAGENARIAN IN THE WORLD. MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE.

Boston, Mass.—During the lifetime of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, spanning as it does nearly one hundred years, many questions of world-wide importance have been settled and in many of these questions this dauntless woman has been in the thick of the fight. Last May she passed her ninetieth birthday. She was happily married in 1843 to the eminent philanthropist, Samuel Gridley Howe. The work of Dr. Howe and his young wife, who assisted him in publishing the Boston Commonwealth, anti-slavery paper, prior to the civil war, is still remembered by many New England families.

When the slavery question had been settled Mrs. Howe took up the question of woman suffrage as one of the pioneers in this country in this great work which is today a world-wide movement of the first magnitude. Her mature mind saw the need of prison reform over fifty years ago and she took up the question with an energy which has been productive of great results. In this too she was one of the first to conceive and actively work for prison reform.

Realizing the awfulness of war, Mrs. Howe took up the cause of peace at

It will be remembered that sensational charges of embezzlement preferred against Mr. Dwight Fortner following his romantic marriage to the beautiful St. Louis society girl.

THE UNUSUAL SPECTACLE OF TWO AIRSHIPS IN A "WING AND WING" RACE.

ONE OF WRIGHT BROTHERS' MACHINES IN THE LEAD, FOLLOWED BY PAULHAN AT RHICMS. THE GREATEST AERONAUTICAL PICTURE EVER TAKEN.

The unusual spectacle of a speed contest by heavier-than-air aeroplanes in a neck and neck or, more properly speaking, a wing and wing race, was seen at Rhicms, France, during aviation week. The amazement of the spectators broke forth into a cheer when the two machines, which had been flying in a loose formation, suddenly broke into a neck and neck race. The picture was taken by a camera which was mounted on a tower and was a most remarkable picture ever taken in the history of the world in connection with aeroplanes.

NEW LAWN SPRINKLER

Nozzle Gyrates and Flings Water Far and Wide on Lawn.

In this hot, dry season of the year, the lawn sprinkler is a most desirable and useful appliance. This sprinkler is so designed that it works about as though propelled by human agency and flings sprays of water far and wide on all sides. First, there is a stand pipe, supplied by the regular garden hose but adapted to be thrust into the ground at any point. Rising above the pipe is a section of rubber piping, spirally coiled, at the top of which is a bell-shaped nozzle, pierced with a number of
